MCGILL WINS HARD BATTLE ON SATURDAY

Overtime Necessary to Decide Winner.

SCORE: 32—30.

Heavy Checking Feature of Saturday's Struggle.

Those who missed seeing Saturday evening's game between the McGill Seniors and M.A.A.A. Blues missed at the same time a stellar exhibition of this great indoor pastime. The contest was witnessed by a fairly large crowd, but generally speaking our senior aggregation deserves better support from the student body than it has been receiving.

It was a hard fought struggle throughout, at the end of the second half the two teams were tied with a score of 30 all, and it was only in the last few minutes of the five-minute overtime period that Hay managed to place the ball in the basket, scoring the winning counter for McGill. M.A.A.A. had no spares on hand, but Coach Art. Walsh gave all the McGill substitutes an opportunity of proving their mettle. For the winners, Parlow shot the greatest number of baskets, Amaron played a consistently fast game, while Ed. Crane and C. Hay showed up well for the short time they were on the floor. For M.A.A.A., Johnson probably did the most work, and was accorded able backing by his team-mates.

The men set a fast clip at the beginning of the first half, and the Red and White notched the first point, playing a tricky combination game. M.A.A.A., however, did not allow their opponents to gain a too commanding lead, and due to the dependable shooting of R. Johnson, kept within hailing distance.

The half ended with the scoreboard registering 23 points for McGill to 17 points for M.A.A.A.

From the commencement of the second period the home team set out with a determination to place matters on a more equal basis. They were playing with the handicap of having an injured man on their line-up. O'Brien, who sustained a minor hurt in the first half, was forced to continue because of the lack of a sub. to replace him.

Despite the persistent efforts of the students to keep the opposing score at a low level, and despite the efficient playing of Crain, who replaced Solomon, at full time the score was 30-30, and it was decided to play an extra five minutes to decide the issue. The M.A.A.A. took many shots on the McGill basket, but were unsuccessful in their attempts. After a brilliant piece of passing, Hay dropped the ball through the net for the last and deciding tally of the evening, bringing the collegians in (Continued on Page 2.)

PARTIALS PASS ON CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

R.V.C. Girls Prepare to Make Three Families Happy Over Yuletide.

Last week, a number of the R.V.C. Partials spent an afternoon decorating the University Rooms with evergreen, red bells and holly wreaths. They were well satisfied with their work, for, when they were finished, everything looked very Christmassy and pretty.

The original two families for whom the society had intended to provide with Christmas dinners, have increased to three families. Two of them consist of a husband, a wife and young babies; the third, of a mother, a father and three boys, aged 8, 10 and 2 years, respectively. On Thursday morning the baskets will be packed, so that all the girls who are contributing are asked to give their money to their year representative as soon as possible, and to leave their canned goods at R.V.C. not later than Wednesday. The girls would like to provide toys and clothes also for the children, because to every child Christmas gifts mean so much. The Partial Society would welcome any contribution of clothing or toys from any undergrad, who feels disposed to help on this good work.

QUESTION OF PUBLICATION DEALT WITH

Meeting of Students' Council Yesterday.

CONDITIONS MADE.

Athletic Dinners To Be Tendered Only to Senior Championship Teams.

Yesterday afternoon there was held in the Union a meeting of the Students' Council, when the following were present: Learoyd, Robertson, Forbes, Cully, O'Meara, Kinsman, Petersen, Nicholson, Hall and Long.

In view of the resolution passed at the recent meeting of the Students' Society, when that body placed itself on record as being in favor of some form of monthly periodical, the Council considered an expression of opinion should be made by them on this subject. After considerable discussion, the following resolution was then passed:—

"That in view of the fact that the Students' Council considers that the publication of the proposed monthly magazine by the Students' Council is impracticable for financial reasons, the Students' Council places itself on record as being in favor of granting the right of publication of a monthly magazine to any group of students who wish to undertake the venture, provided that they proceed with the publication under the following conditions:—

(1) That such a publication be under the control of a board of censors approved by the Students' Council, one member of the Students' Council to be a member of this Board.

(2) That the publishers, should the venture prove a financial success, pay to the student body through its executive Council for the privilege of such right of publication a sum to be agreed upon by both parties, and such sum to be set forth in the constitution.

(3) That the constitution for the publication be drawn up by the Students' Council in conjunction with the persons who are to publish this magazine and be approved by the Students' Society."

At previous meetings lately there has been considerable discussion as to what line should be drawn with regard to tendering dinners by the respective athletic clubs to their competing teams. Yesterday's meeting considered the matter at length, and a decision was finally reached and embodied in the following resolution:—

"Owing to the fact that, as at present, the number of teams competing in intercollegiate athletics is extremely large and is increasing yearly, in future dinners will be tendered only to Senior Championship teams of major sports."

CHRISTMAS CARDS.

The Xmas Cards which have been ordered through the porters at the Union are now to hand. Those who placed orders are requested to take delivery of the cards as soon as possible.

CHESS CLUB.

There will be a regular meeting of the Chess Club at 7.30 p.m. this evening in the Union.

MCGILL A.A.A.

The meeting of the McGill Athletic Association which was agreed upon at the last meeting to take place to-day at 5 p.m., has been postponed until to-morrow at 5 p.m. This will take place in the Union.

HOCKEY SQUAD HOLDS FIRST ICE PRACTICE

Culley, Behan, Dineen and Flanagan Out.

GAME ON DEC. 27.

Ice in Poor Condition, But Some Good Material Brought Out.

The first hockey practice of the season was held on the Campus Rink on Saturday afternoon. The condition of the ice was poor, and consequently the men were not given much opportunity to show their ability.

Of last year's Senior team, Flanagan, Cully, Behan and Dineen were out, together with several members of the Intermediate and Junior squads.

"Boo" Anderson, who expects to undergo an operation shortly, was not on skates, but in all probability he will appear on the line-up of the first game.

Neither "Ted" Clarke nor Leo Timmins, the net-minders of last year's squad, were out. Stenson, who originally played in the Sherbrooke City League, and O'Halloran, are trying out for the goal position.

McKinnon, who captained the Dalhousie team last year, made a good impression, and should fill a position on the McGill team this year. His regular place is at left-wing, and he shows the necessary speed and skill of a forward man. Price, another forward man, from Manitoba, handles a stick well and is very fast. His lack of weight should be the only reason for his failure to catch a position on the team. Goddard, who starred in the Ottawa City League last year, was also out, and showed up well. He plays either on the forward line or defence, and should make a very useful man on the squad.

Others that turned out were: Syd Davis and Kelly, of last year's Intermediate team; Fredericks, from Varsity; and Stevens, of the McGill Junior team of last year.

Comparatively little was able to be gleaned from the practice as to McGill's prospects for this year, but as far as could be determined, some good material will be brought out.

The first game will take place on December 27th against M.A.A.A., and as far as present indications go, a strong team will represent McGill.

R. V. C. BIBLE CLASS.

Dr. Gordon's Bible class will meet as usual to-day at 5 p.m. in Room 112 of R.V.C. It is hoped that a large number of girls will attend.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S.

Will all students who have not made any engagements for Christmas and New Year's Day please send in their names to the Hospitality Committee—"The Office" Strathcona Hall.

MOST ENJOYABLE TIME AT HALL

Ladies' Auxiliary Entertain Out-of-Towners on Sunday Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon in the reading room of Strathcona Hall, which was most exquisitely decorated with Christmas trimmings, a very enjoyable reception was held for some of the out-of-town men. Mrs. R. E. Brown and Miss Neilson welcomed each of the guests, and with the other ladies present made every student feel extremely at home during the afternoon. Mrs. Rowan poured tea.

Mr. Adney played several selections on the piano, while several solos sung by Miss E. Cox, accompanied by Miss D. Aylen, gave to all a musical treat, while Mr. Walter's solos were no less a pleasant surprise.

This is the third time that the Ladies' Auxiliary of the McGill "Y" have done so much to make the Hall so cheery and agreeable for the students, and every person present appreciated to the fullest extent the kindly interest which has been taken by these "foster mothers" of McGill.

It is a matter of the deepest pleasure for the committee in charge Sunday afternoons to entertain, and any out-of-town men free next Sunday afternoon would confer a great favor on the Hospitality Committee by sending in their names to the office, the Hall.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1920.

HALF-TIME

With the appearance of this issue the "Daily" ceases publication for the period of the Christmas Holidays. Already many have slipped away to the paternal fireside to enjoy a few hours extra relief from the strain of the daily grind, and after to-morrow lectures will be officially suspended in the various faculties for a much-needed breathing-space of two weeks duration.

A retrospective glance at the life of the University and of the undergraduate body during the period of this first half of the session shows still further progress along the road of efficiency and achievement. For the University these few months have been a period of settling down to await the direction and guidance of a new principal, who must be accorded time and sympathetic encouragement if he is to secure a sure and steady grasp of the tiller.

By far the most noteworthy event in the recent history of McGill has been the nation-wide appeal for funds. Its inception was noble, and, from the point of view of execution, it was a splendid exhibition of tireless energy on the part of those entrusted with its management. It would be useless to deny that the funds ultimately collected did not perhaps quite measure up to our legitimate expectations. But this state of affairs is easily explained by the decidedly wobbly condition of the world of finance at the present time. As it is McGill has sufficient to carry on with—a noble end in itself.

Progress has been no less marked in the field of undergraduate effort. Athletics, which form an excellent barometer for the comparative study of the amount of "life" in a University, have thriven in our midst. It is true that Fortune did not smile upon us in the final struggle for the Intercollegiate Football honors—the pinnacle of the autumnal world of sport. But it is certain that we do not grudge our rivals their hard-earned victory. Despite the fanatical protestations of a certain section of the "yellow press" which has its lair in the province lying to the West of us, the representatives of McGill have always thought more of playing the game for the sake of the game itself than for any pelf or kudos that might be derived therefrom.

It is impossible within a limited space to pass in review all the manifold forms of activity at present in existence on the Campus. Suffice it to say that they have been for the most part as flourishing as they are numerous and broadly comprehensive. For all forms of student-activity the first half of the present session has been most promising.

After the holidays some of us will be forced to undergo the uncertain test of examinations. Particularly for the newcomers among us will it be a time of weighing in the balance. But let us not discuss the subject of examinations; for a certain great thinker once characterized them as "a necessary relic of barbarism." The best cure for brain-fag is to adopt, if we are able, as a motto for the next two weeks the opening words of an old student-song of last century, "Gaudeamus igitur, juvenes dum sumus." After that perhaps the deluge, but for the present—a Merry Christmas.

THE STUDENTS' SOCIETY

Last Wednesday afternoon a fraction of the members of the Students' Society, who appear to show a certain amount of interest in undergraduate affairs, were for want of a quorum unable to reach a decision on a most important topic after two hours heated discussion. This afternoon there will be another opportunity for discussing the question at issue. Will the same apathy be shown?

The interest at the meeting will of course centre about the plans for establishing a monthly magazine—surely a sufficiently vital subject in itself. But that is not the sole topic of discussion. On Wednesday many left the meeting because the issue had become somewhat clouded, but what of the hundreds who never showed up at all? If anything of a definite character is to be done during the present session the question of the magazine must be finally decided this afternoon. A much larger attendance is absolutely essential if the final show of hands is to be truly representative of the general opinion of the undergraduate body.

BEST "SING" OF SEASON AT HALL

Christmas Spirit Permeated "Social Hour" at Hall.

UNIQUE DECORATIONS.

Largest Attendance This Year—Christmas Music Sung By Miss Jackson.

Last evening after church, the large number of students which filled the reading room of Strathcona Hall enjoyed a most profitable social hour. The blazing fire in the hearth, with the emblematic decorations of Yuletide, consisting of wreaths of holly, evergreen trimmings, and Christmas trees covered with tinsel, gave an appearance to the Hall which was most fitting to the occasion, to say the least. The music chosen was all of a Christmas nature, including many of the finest carols and hymns which we have. These in themselves are always of interest to us, but when played by the orchestra present last night, and solos given by ladies like Miss Alma Jackson, they have a decidedly increased meaning to everyone.

The most delicious refreshments were served, while the marshmallows which were toasted at the open fireplace were not only exceedingly tasty but afforded a very successful medium for making all to feel certainly at home, and gave an opportunity for the large attendance to get acquainted.

The "sing," by which name the "social hour" has been designated at McGill has been steadily gaining in popularity throughout the season under the direction of Mr. Harry Avison, of Arts '22, who has, with his social committee, been sparing no time or care to develop this function, as the fruits of their united efforts have already shown.

This is the last one of the "Old Year," but with the opening of the "New," the "Sing" will be recommended with still more increased interest.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Dear Sir,—

I was greatly interested by your recent editorial, entitled, "A Song Book." It seems to me that such a suggestion should not be allowed to go undeveloped.

There are many about McGill with a talent for music. I am positive that a new song book would meet with success. It seems to me that the only way to get action would be to have the various undergraduate societies, at their first meetings after the holidays, appoint representatives to work on the idea. These representatives, together with members of the Conservatorium, might be successful in giving us a long-needed institution.

Hoping to see further developments in this question,

I am, truly yours,

CANTOR.

Movement Originated With Student Idea.

MEETING AT GUELPH.

Will Exert Greater Influence on Undergraduate Body.

Much discussion has been rife lately concerning the Student Christian Movement. The following article comes to hand from one who has been in touch with it for some time, and is well fitted to take it up in detail:—

Since it became known that the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. of the Colleges of Canada were contemplating a change in name and form of organization, the term Student Christian Movement (or "Association") for the name is not fully determined has excited a considerable amount of interest in College circles. A convention of representative student delegates is to meet at Guelph at the end of this year to determine a policy and to frame a constitution for the new movement.

The dynamic of this movement comes from the summer conferences, which in recent years have brought together considerable numbers of Canadian students at several centres, where for a week they have given themselves to a survey and consideration of the problems of life and religion in their relation to our College communities.

The Movement comes out of growing conviction on the part of these students, and professors and secretaries associated with them, that the great need of modern society is that of worthier ideals and more definite compelling principles of life—in their essence religious. Coupled with this is the conviction equally strong that there is, for the individual and for society, a way of life that is right, and that this must be sought with intelligence and fearlessness, if the Kingdom of God is ever to be more than an idle dream. Further, there rests upon the student, by virtue of his superior opportunity, a peculiar responsibility for leadership in the solution as well as scientific problems. In the maze of conflicting opinions and philosophies of life something is right, something will wear, something has the stamp of eternal validity upon it. Who has a better right and who such an opportunity as the college student to question, to search, to venture anywhere, that the true may be known and the false discarded? Religion to the new movement is not a creed, nor a book, nor a quiet folding of the hands. It is the Great Adventure; it is Life.

Naturally when people seek adventure they wish to accept the responsibility for the consequences, and to travel with those who are like minded. They cannot take the whole family along and involve them in possible disaster. Hence the desire on the part of the students for a movement that is of the students, and which will be as flexible as developing student life requires it to be.

The new movement has no criticism to offer the Y.M.C.A. or Y.W.C.A. or of any other religious body. Its separation from the parent organizations is not the result of a family quarrel or even a misunderstanding; it is rather the case of a child reaching the age where he feels that he has a life of his own to live. It seeks to be allied with them and to give and take in mutual benefit. It has no aims at greatness in the sense of bigness. It seeks only to make its own contribution in its own way. It is not concerned with the setting up of machinery and equipment, or introducing activities that may only duplicate those already provided in most colleges. It seeks as its central function to invite students for service—not to be served; to give emphasis to a side of life that is as real and as important as 100 per cent. scholarship or technical proficiency; and to stimulate independent thought and action on the part of students in the pursuit of truth and character. When asked, "What difference then between this and the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A.?" the answer must be this: "It will differ only as student life differs from industrial and commercial life." That may be not at all. Moreover, it may fail, as any movement might have failed. But at any rate the majority of the colleges of Canada are committed to it, and its success will depend on several factors which cannot be discussed in limited space here.

The problem of transition at McGill is greater than at any other Canadian college, for here the Y.M.C.A. possesses a building and equipment approximating those of a regular city Y.M.C.A., whereas in other Canadian colleges the Association have offices only or no equipment at all. The choice of McGill is therefore not so easy, nor the way so clear as for others. In essence our problem is this: whether it is better for the McGill Y.M.C.A. (the Y.W.C.A. has already decided) to continue under

CAFETERIA CLOSED DURING HOLIDAYS

But Union Will Remain Open Except on New Year's Day and Christmas.

After Tuesday, December 21st, the Union Cafeteria will close its doors until after the Christmas holiday—January 6th. This decision was reached by the proprietor and the Union officials, because it was thought that as there was little possibility of there being sufficient demand to warrant the continuation of its operation. Consequently, unless there is enough interest manifested to warrant the restaurant remaining open for the holidays, students must take their meals apart from their accustomed haunts till the New Year, and the illuminating conversation of the afternoon tea artists must perforce be held elsewhere.

However, the Union will still be at the disposal of the undergraduate body, as it is anticipated that it will receive support to compensate for their decision in this respect.

LONDON'S HISTORY.

So far there has been no systematic or thorough study of London's history, and in that respect London is far behind Paris, where research into the history of the city is well organized and is helped by a handsome subsidy from the municipality. It has long been the ambition of historians in London to establish a readership, if not a professorship, and the London County Council has now decided to make a grant of £400 a year to pay a reader, with a supplementary grant for a library. University College has collected a special library on the history of London which will be the nucleus for the new venture. London for Londoners will be London for the world, as the study will bring out the cosmopolitan character of the place, where everyone feels at home enough to grumble at it.
